

Ocean Kayak Peek-a-boo

I know there are directions out there on how to convert a canoe into a View Scope canoe by installing a clear panel in the bottom. However, that could be quite a project for the average person.

While I was visiting the Old Town Canoe outlet store and showroom the other day I ran across this terrific kayak. It comes equipped with a viewing panel built into the bottom as standard equipment. I have attached the brochure showing this particular feature. If you know any plant patrollers thinking about making such a device, this may be an option they should consider. The list price is $750.00 however they have "blems" for $599. So if you like kayaking this craft will do nicely and it can double as a View Scope as well!
